

Newsletter

Volume 1

December, 2007

Admit it, you love bubbles. The way they float effortlessly in the air. The way they make such fun shapes. And boy, the way they look in pictures - so very, very cool! Yes, kids of all ages love bubbles. But did you know you can learn geometric principles just by playing with bubbles?

In honor of our love of bubbles, TCM debuted its traveling exhibit in November, 2007 at The Riverfield Autumn Arts Festival with yes, an interactive bubble exhibit. Children (and adults!) discovered how to construct three-dimensional bubbles with Zometools, one of the most advanced building systems ever designed.

We are thrilled to announce - it was a huge success! Boys and girls of all age levels sat side by side fascinated as they Greetings!

As we all get our lives together after the icestorm, we want to send our warmest wishes to you -- one of the many supporters of the Tulsa Children's Museum!

We are grateful for all the time you spent perusing our website, completing the surveys, and sharing our news with others.

The response to the surveys was tremendous and it is increasingly clear -- Tulsa is in need of a children's museum.

Thanks once again for all of your support. If you signed up to volunteer, we will be in touch some time after the New Year. We will host a volunteer training session come late February/early March of 2008.

As a "museum without walls," we are interacting with the Tulsa community through traveling exhibits and outreach programming. We look forward to seeing you at local festivals, events, and elementary schools throughout the region.

A Little About Us ...

Many of you told us that you visited other children's museums and wondered discovered new shapes, created mounds of bubbles and explored their creativity by making bubble masterpieces using colored bubble solution and straws.

In 2008, we plan on bringing this traveling exhibit to local school events and festivals. If you know of an event, a festival or a school that would be interested in our traveling exhibit, please contact us at info@tulsachildrensmuseum.org

We are working on developing other traveling exhibits and outreach programs and will keep you informed as we come up with more news.

Quick Links...

Our Website
Children's Museums
Zometools
Dinner Market

-- why don't we have one in our hometown?

We as a board, share those same sentiments.

We are a group of unbelievably enthusiastic parents and professional who are very passionate about bringing a children's museum to Tulsa.

Through our outreach programs and exhibits we plan to:

- Promote health and nutritional awareness and provide healthy food choices that children and adults will enjoy.
- Familiarize children with the unique aspects of the Tulsa community, its history, geography and culture.
- Connect with underserved children through community service and outreach programs.
- Promote understanding and acceptance of different cultures and celebrate and embrace diversity of all kinds.
- Enhance our community's environmental awareness and understanding of conservation.

Health Connection

Eat your veggies! Isn't that the classic line that all moms use!

Send us your best recipe to get kids to eat veggies, and if we choose your recipe for our next newsletter, we'll send you a gift certificate from the local and mom owned meal specialist, Dinner Market .

Just email the recipe by January 15th to: info@tulsachildrensmuseum.org with the subject line: Veggies!

Email Marketing by

